

—Discovering & Meeting—

YOUR FAMILY'S NEEDS

LOVE LANGUAGE	NAME	DO THESE THINGS ☺	AVOID THESE THINGS ☹
WORDS OF AFFIRMATION	Encouraging words, appreciation and compliments. Send a text, email or card. Validate and affirm genuinely and often.	Harsh words, non-constructive criticism, not recognizing effort or saying thanks.
QUALITY TIME	Uninterrupted and undivided attention, one-on-one time and meaningful conversations. Go on walks and plan special moments, dates or trips together.	Distractions or interruptions when together, multi-tasking.
RECEIVING GIFTS	Thoughtfulness, remember their favorite things, remember special occasions, give a meaningful gift just because.	Forgetting special occasions, gifts with hidden or negative agenda.
ACTS OF SERVICE	Assist with chores, serve breakfast in bed, pitch in and help. Phrases like: "How can I help..." "I would love to...for you"	Forgetting promises, over committing, selfishness, unwilling to serve.
PHYSICAL TOUCH	Touch that communicates I am here and I care about you. Hugs, kisses, holding hands, foot rub, tickles and affection.	Neglect, lack of physical contact, abrasive contact.

After taking the 5 Love Languages profile for each member of your family, fill in a name next to each person's primary love language. Put this card in a frame and keep in a central location in your home to remind each other to show love in an intentional way. You will also find ideas of what to do and what to avoid when speaking your family's love languages.

© 2015 by Gary D. Chapman, Inkling Innovation and Lake Pointe Church
Adapted from The 5 Love Languages® by Northfield Publishing. Used with permission.